ERECTING NEW GRAND STAND AT NEW LONDON COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS

The specifications and plans for the new horse barn to be erected at the Fairgrounds have been submitted to the local contractors for bids. The new barn, which is to be erected near the present barn, will be 151x112 feet and will have 15 stalls. There will be a porch roof running the entire length of the structure.

The track has never been in better shape than it is this year. It is hard and even and a number of horses are working out on it daily. There are between 15 and 20 horses at the Fairgrounds already. Joseph Bedard, of West Main street has five horses there including Peter Review and Billie B. Dan Connelly has three horses and Milton Mitchell of Montville has three horses at the grounds. A. M. Etheridge is training three horses at the track for Arthur Williams of Lebanon.

Work has already been started on the erection of the new grandstand. The force of 10 or 15 men employed on the contract are pouring the concrete for the 45 piers upon which the structural work will rest. Each pier is 4x1 feet in size and is four feet in the ground. A number of fair officials have been appointed. Edwin A. Tracy of Spaulding street, has been appointed as superintendent of the flower department. This year the flower department will be separate from the vegetable and fruit department. Mr. Tracy is an expert flower grower and a lover of flowers. S. Alpheus Gilbert has been appointed judge of the flower department.

This year the pet stock and pigeon department will be separated from the poultry department and Fred S. Tourtellotte has been named as judge of the new department.

The cattle department will have but one judge this year instead of the usual two as has been the case heretofore. William A. Gallop has been appointed the superintendent of this department. The judge will be Prof. John G. McNulty, professor of animal husbandry at New Hampshire Agricultural college. Prof. McNulty, it will be remembered judged the cat at the local fair in 1931 and 1932. Last year he was cattle judge at 35 different fairs, including the Springfield exhibition and the New York state fair.

For the poultry department J. H. Grevenstedt of Plainville, L. I., editor of the American Poultry Fancier, and Hiram W. Schrieber of Groton have been secured as the judges.

Secretary Gilbert S. Raymond said on Thursday that he has already had a number of applications for many days. He has booked a merry-go-round and in addition has booked 10 free acts from the B. P. Keith theatrical agency in Boston.

The band stand is to be moved from its present location to a position alongside the vaudeville platform across the track.

OVERSEER OF PEQUOT TRIBE

According to the annual report of Apportionment Commissioner, overseer of the Pequot Indian tribe, filed with the superior court last week, there are 23 members in the tribe at present. Of this number about a dozen reside on the reservation. The tribe are descendants of the aborigines of the Pequot tribe but none are full blooded, all having either white or negro blood in their veins. The nearest of the tribe to being full blooded, was Eliza Potter, known as Blind Eliza, who died last winter at the age of 75.

Overseer Main's report showed that the reservation is maintained by a permanent fund created from the sale of lands of the reservation. The inventory of the estate is placed at between $5,000 and $9,000, of which $6,710 in cash in the Norwich Savings Society and the remainder is the value of the land and buildings comprising the reservation. Under the state statute the income of the fund is expended for the benefit of the Indians. The overseer has the care and management of the lands and funds.

At present there are ten or twelve members of the tribe on the reservation and with one exception all are able to work to assist in supporting themselves. These work around the neighborhood hiring out as farm hands. The remaining members of the tribe are located in Saybrook, Westerly, Stonington and other places. They are working for a living and are self supporting.

Mr. Main has been overseer for the tribe since 1905, succeeding the late George Fanning, former judge of probate of the town of Ledyard, at whose recommendation he was appointed. The position carries little monetary compensation, the work being purely a labor of love. Mr. Main has lived in the neighborhood of the reservation for many years and has known the members of the tribe for many years. He is highly respected by the tribe for his kindly treatment and personal interest in their welfare.

CANDIDATES APPEAR FOR CITY DEPARTMENT HEADS

Since the democratic victory last Monday in the city election, which gave that party control of the common council, candidates for all the appointive offices in the city of Norwich have been hotfoot on the trail of the council members, the members of the democratic town committee, and influential friends as might put in a good word for them.

Some of the rumors that were in circulation Thursday, after a meeting was held Wednesday night and another Thursday afternoon by the democratic members of the council were that William H. McGuinness might be expected to get the place of cashier of the water department, now held by L. R. Church, and that John J. Corlery, who was elected a water commissioner would probably be named president of the board and would carry out the duties now falling to supervisor Charles W. Burton. The name of William W. Callahan was also mentioned as slated for an appointment in the water department.

For street commissioner, to take the place of George E. Fellows, it was understood that the candidates were in the field, James M. Fox, who has already been street commissioner once, Frank G. Rice, who has once before been a candidate for the place, and Albert E. Crutcher, whose name has figured at other times as a possible candidate for the place. It seemed to be the impression Thursday night that Mr. Fox would be the probable choice for street commissioner.

Two names were rumored to have been under discussion for the place of common council, now held by William W. Callahan, before Judge James H. Wadley. Ten cases were continued and two were dismissed, one of them for bookkeeping and the other because no certificate of last arrival could be shown.

In the two days of naturalization work 124 applicants for citizenship were admitted.

The representatives of Faith Trumbull chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution were in court again Thursday, presenting the new citizens with small American flags and the Bibles prescribed by the national society, D. A. R.

He is to be paid $105 for disability for 6 weeks at $1.50 per week, with medical and hospital bills.

Bridgeport—According to the annual report made by the police commissioners of Bridgeport, no less than 38 nationalities were represented in the arrests made during the last fiscal year.

Deep River—B. G. Tourville, principal of the Deep River High school, expects to take a post graduate course at Clark college, Worcester this summer. He is to work for the degree of Master of Arts in Pedagogy and Psychology.

Will Go to Lebanon Flag Day
A number of the members of Faith Trumbull chapter, O. A. R., are preparing to go to the Lebanon next Wednesday when the chapter there is to have an observance of Flag Day.

The worst thing about a bore is that it is almost impossible to insult him.

THE FACE IN THE MIRROR
Your face, does it wear the contented expression of good health, or are the features drawn and pallid? In the latter case, your story is read by all who see you, and what woman of spirit wants to be billed for her physical condition? There is a way to get the nervous, tired lines out of your face and the slumped shoulders, and the sagging neck. The Vegetable Compound, Lydia E. Pinkham's, will strengthen the nerves and tone up the system to resist that excessive fatigue.

Shower for Miss Hourigan
Mrs. Fred S. Crowell, gave a white enamel shower Monday evening at her home, 120 Washington street, for Miss Madeline R. Hourigan.

Recruiting for Navy
The navy recruiting service of the state of Connecticut is again enlisting and enlisting men at their recruiting stations located at New Haven, Bridgeport and Hartford. Since the resumption of recruiting May 1932, a total of 112 men have successfully passed physical requirements and have been placed in the U. S. navy.

All men enlisting in the U. S. navy for the first time are transferred direct to Hampton Roads, Va., for a course of instruction; ex-soldiers and ex-marines are enlisted in an advanced rating and are transferred direct to the navy yard, Brooklyn, N. Y., for equipment, etc. for further transfer to active duty; ex-navy men and discharged members of the naval reserve force are transferred to a receiving ship of their selection.
